

Don Kalb is Professor of Social Anthropology at the University of Bergen, Norway (previously at CEU, Budapest), where he led the project 'Frontlines of Value: Class and Inequality in 21st century global capitalism' (2017-2022). He also serves as Academic Director of UiB's GRIP program on global inequality (with the International Science Council, Paris). His work focuses on capitalism, class and its intersections, labor and social reproduction, the urban and popular politics, including illiberal, racist, and neonationalist formations.

His books include Expanding Class (Duke University Press), 1997; Critical Junctions: Anthropology and History beyond the Cultural Turn (Berghahn), 2005; Headlines of Nation, Subtexts of Class (Berghahn) 2011; Anthropologies of Class (Cambridge U.P), 2015 (with James Carrier). World Wide Mobilizations: Class Struggles and Urban Commoning (Berghahn), 2018 (with Mao Mollona); Financialisation: Relational Approaches, 2020 (with Chris Hann). Insidious Capital: Frontlines of Value at the End of a Global Cycle (Berghahn 2024). He is Founding Editor of Focaal – Journal of Global and Historical Anthropology and of FocaalBlog